

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method of manufacturing a flat panel light emitting device of a predetermined size includes forming an area of light emitting materials on a substrate, the area being larger than the predetermined size; detecting defects in 5 the area; determining a defect free portion of the area having the predetermined size; and cutting the defect free portion from the substrate to produce the flat panel light emitting device.